Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Nov. 23.—Failure to receive proper discharge blanks from the war department at Washington through a misunderstanding today caused military authorities at Camp Sherman to postpone until next Tuesday or Wednesday the discharging of the first Ohio troops to be ordered honorably discharged following the signing of the armistice.

Orders were issued this week for the mustering out of 12,000 Ohio selective draft soldiers. The men were to have been released at the rate of 500 a day beginning today. The men were to have reported to the camp paymaster at 8 o'clock this morning to receive their final papers, their pay and transportation home.

However, the discharge blanks had not been received from Washington this morning and at the last minute the muster out was ordered postponed. Camp officials said this morning that the first contingent probably would be mustered out next Wednesday morning, or possibly Tuesday. The final dress parade will be held at Camp Sherman Tuesday, however, and many of the selects wish to remain in the army until after the parade. Therefore, it was stated that the mustering out probably would begin Wednesday, even though no discharge papers are received before then.

The first men to be mustered out will be those who were to have been discharged today. They will be from the following counties: Adams, Pike, Scioto, Lawrence, Franklin, Pickaway, Madison, Muskingum, Morgan, Licking, Richland, Perry, Belmont, Monroe, Muskingum, and Noble.

Great excitement prevailed in camp early today as the first contingent of men made ready to receive their discharges and leave for their homes. There was little disappointment, however, when the order was rescinded as most of the men were desirous of remaining over to take part in Tuesday's review.

Discharge orders provide that 12,000 men be released from military service at Camp Sherman immediately. The twelve training battalions are to be reduced to four and the six development battalions are to be reduced to two. There are approximately 1,000 men in each battalion.

Beginning next week 500 men are to be released each day until all of the 12,000 have left camp.

FIRST SOLDIERS SAIL
FROM ENGLAND HOME(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Liverpool, Friday, Nov. 22.—Several thousand American soldiers sailed for home today on the liners Lapland and Minneha. It was a stirring scene as the men marched from the railway station and local camps to the landing stage amid the rousing cheers from the throng of people along the streets.CUTS HALF BILLION
FROM REVENUE BILL(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Nov. 22.—The senate finance committee in revising the house draft of the war revenue bill today planned to cut off another half billion dollars through reduction of the miscellaneous taxes. Through lowering of house rates on semi-luxuries, gasoline and tobacco and through elimination of the proposed tax on costly articles of clothing and merchandise, the committee yesterday reduced the total commitment of the measure by approximately half a billion dollars.

The revision downward of the miscellaneous taxes is expected to reduce the revenue which it is estimated the bill will yield to $6,000,000,000, the amount Secretary McAdoo has suggested the nation will need from taxation for peace-time expenditures.

Decision on the proposal made by Secretary McAdoo and recommended by Chairman Simmons to include in the pending bill the revenue plan for 1920 is yet to be reached. The committee having deferred action yesterday, the strong Republican opposition against any plan for fixing the 1920 revenue at this time still is being manifested.

FRISCO LABOR MEN WILL NOT CALL STRIKE

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 22.—Decision not to call a general strike as a protest against the execution, on December 12 of Thomas J. Mooney, was reached last night by the San Francisco labor council which as an alternative appointed a committee of ten to call personally on Governor W. D. Stephens and urge him to grant the condemned man a new trial on one of the remaining murder indictments. Mooney was convicted of murder in connection with the pre-trial day bombing explosion here on July 22, 1916. He is in San Quentin prison.

RAGS, DIE ALONG ROAD(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Nov. 23.—Pitiful conditions among British prisoners in the German lines since the signing of the armistice are described by Robert's correspondent at French headquarters. Thousands of these men, mostly British are entering France daily.

The correspondent writes "I have never seen human beings in such a state of raggedness, hunger and misery. When the camp at Pribach, 28 miles east of Metz, as well as those elsewhere were broken up the prisoners, most of them were captured during the March offensive, were told to clear out and seek help from the allies. They started to walk to the allies to the allied lines, but were given no food and no money. They were in shameful rage, the sides dropping off their boots. Some were clad and some not."

The left the prison camp in droves of hundreds in charge of German officers and soldiers who had deserted. The weather was very cold and many died on the road within a few miles from friends. When the survivors entered the French lines, French soldiers who were hardened war heroes were horrified to see men in such a plight. It is not known how many suffered.

The British prisoners of other nationalities are agreed that the British were treated worse than the others at all German camps."

Washington, Nov. 23.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday issued by the weather bureau today caused military authorities at Camp Sherman to postpone until next Tuesday or Wednesday the mustering out of the first Ohio troops to be ordered honorably discharged following the signing of the armistice.

SERGT. JACKSON
HELPED WHEELER
OFF BATTLEFIELDNewark Soldier Wounded at Chateau-Thierry, Is Carried to Hospital by Local Boy.

Private Carl Wheeler, member of Company B, 166th infantry, arrived at his home; 254 Elmwood avenue, at 8:30 o'clock this morning. He is the first Newark man who served with the now world-famed Rainbow division to return home.

He is but one regret that he was not permitted to stay with his outfit when it decided to proceed into Germany territory as a part of the army of occupation.

Private Wheeler was wounded at Chateau-Thierry, which will go down into the annals of history as one of the fiercest conflicts of one of the world's greatest battles. On July 28, when the fight was at its climax, a high explosive caught him. He was wounded in the left leg, left hand and right side. It was a Newark man who helped him from the battle line to be given first aid. Sergeant Paul Jackson—son of Dr. W. L. Jackson of this city—carried Wheeler from the battlefield.

He enlisted in the early summer of 1917 and when the Fourth regiment was made a part of the Rainbow division he left with it for France.

The company of which he was member was first assigned to the Luneville sector, which was a quiet part of the line. They were then sent to Alsace-Lorraine where they remained for two weeks and saw the first active service. From Alsace they were sent to the Baccarat sector where the organization remained for four months. The Champagne front was the next move and 18 days were spent there and it was from this front that the 166th went into battle at Chateau-Thierry, and where Wheeler fell when the high explosive caught him.

When asked if he knew of any Newark men wounded or killed he said he did not know. But that out of the company he heard that 200 fell in the battle and that of these 45 were killed.

Private Wheeler was operated on twice in France, and six weeks ago was returned to this country, being first at Ellis Island and he was then transferred to the hospital at Cape May, N. J. Fragments of the shell which wounded him cut a nerve in the left leg, apparently paralyzing it, and it filled a flesh wound on the left hand. It also caught him in the right side, inflicting the lung.

Private Wheeler will remain at his home here for two months, when he will return to the hospital at Cape May for further treatment. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wheeler of Elmwood avenue. He states that through all the battles in which he participated he carried the medal given by the people of Licking county and brought it home with him. He secured a little bit of brass, and made to resemble a miniature book. By pulling out the "back bone" of the book, a cigarette lighter is disclosed.

The members of the Thalian Literary Society of the high school have been meeting with success with their tags today for the benefit of the Public Library. The young women will be on the town streets, for the remainder of the afternoon and evening.

PRESIDENT FACES
TASK OF PICKING
CABINET OFFICERResignation of McAdoo Came Unexpectedly to All But WilsonWILLIAMS MENTIONED AS
HIS POSSIBLE SUCCESSORMay Name Cabinet Officer
As Director General of
Railroads(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Nov. 23.—Giving necessity for replenishing his personal fortune a reason, Wm. G. McAdoo has resigned as Secretary of the Treasury and Director General of Railroads. His resignation has been accepted by President Wilson.

As secretary of the treasury, Mr. McAdoo will retire as soon as a successor has been chosen and has qualified. He will relinquish his position as head of government controlled railroads January 1, unless a director has not then been selected.

In accepting his resignation, Mr. McAdoo, which he announced at a conference with newspaper correspondents late yesterday, was entirely unexpected in Washington. After making the announcement, Mr. McAdoo made public his letter of resignation to the President bearing the date of November 14 and the latter's letter of acceptance.

Saying he had refused to consider resigning while the country was at war, Mr. McAdoo wrote the president that "The inadequate compensation allowed by law to cabinet officers and the very burdensome cost of living in Washington have so depleted my personal resources that I am obliged to reckon with the facts of the situation." While emphasizing that he had not suffered any actual impairment of health, he said he needs a reasonable period of genuine rest to "replenish" his energy.

Neither in his letter to the president nor in his statement to newspaper correspondents announcing his resignation did Mr. McAdoo outline his plan for the future, but it is understood he intends to take a vacation of several months before returning to business, probably the practice of law.

By the resolution, President Wilson, for the fourth time in nearly six years in his term of office is faced with the necessity of filling a vacancy in his cabinet. The resignation of Mr. McAdoo took official Washington so completely by surprise that even today there was little speculation as to his successor of successors. It is not known whether the president will fill separately the office of secretary of treasury and director general of railroads.

In some quarters it was thought today that the president may decide to make some other member of the cabinet head of the nation's railroad system. In such an event it was considered likely that the place would go to General Burleson, an secretary of interior. Should the president decide to go outside his cabinet for a director general, the name of Walker D. Hines, assistant director general and chairman of the board of directors of the Santa Fe was mentioned.

For the treasury secretaryship the name of John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, S. W. P. G. Harding, governor of the federal reserve board, Russel C. Leffingwell, assistant secretary of the treasury and Paul Warburg, formerly a member of the reserve board and New York banker were mentioned.

Tasks of considerable magnitude will face Mr. McAdoo's successor as secretary of the treasury. Probably, two more liberty loans will have to be raised. The nation financed through the reconstruction period, and the revision of revenues arranged and increased taxes collected. The new secretary will also be called upon to recommend to the president for appointment a new member of the federal reserve to succeed Frederic A. Delano, who recently resigned.

Previous to announcing his resignation yesterday, Mr. McAdoo stated specifically that he had no thought of going to Europe, which was as he was meaning he would not be one of the

Chaotic.(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Nov. 23.—The chaotic political conditions in Germany are emphasized in reports received here from Amsterdam and Copenhagen purporting to reproduce direct telegrams from Germany. There is a sharp divergence of opinion in regard to the make-up of the new Germany.

There is a general lack of harmony in different parts of the country and a tendency toward separation. Bolshevik ideas are declared to be growing in the west where a Rhenish republic is said to be planned.

The German soldiers and workers called at a meeting declared itself in complete accord with Bolsheviks and resolved to call on the Bolsheviks in Russia to help introduce communism. The Spartacus group at Dusseldorf is reported to have proclaimed a proletarian dictatorship and arrested the bourgeois leaders of the city.

Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Radical Socialist, was acclaimed at a Spartacus meeting in Berlin, which invited an appeal to the workers to emulate the Russian Bolsheviks. The meeting refused to listen to moderate Socialist speakers.

ASK GOD'S GUIDANCE
FOR FUTURE—COX(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Copenhagen, Nov. 23.—With giving thanks for his past for continuing in the fight for "the betterment of humanity," was the plea contained in a proclamation issued today by Governor James M. Cox, calling upon the people of Ohio to observe Thursday, November 28 as Thanksgiving day.

The proclamation states that "peace after a bitter period of frightful disorder" is enough for Thanksgiving at this time, but "That this peace brings the dawn of a new day of consecration to service in unselfishness, and a season for unrestrained gratitude, the giver of all good gifts," written in the text of the Governor's proclamation.

"The custom of a concerted giving of thanks to God, established by our fathers, has caused a day of Thanksgiving to be set aside annually for nation-wide observance.

"That peace has come to the world after a bitter period of frightful disorder is cause enough and alone at this time: That this peace brings the dawn of a new day of consecration to service in unselfishness is added reason for unrestrained gratitude to the Giver of all good gifts."

As the Germans are so very hungry, we might give them the use of the land from which their shells removed all tillable soil.

Great rejoicing is felt over the prospective return to a peace basis, when we can all go to work producing things that we don't need.

Everyone is hollering to have prices put down, and the popular theory of how to accomplish it is to get your own wages put up.

The delivery of some of this piratical fleet is reported.

Frightfulness did not save Germany. Ruthlessness did not save Germany. All unlawful and inhuman practices which Germany justified on the ground that they were useful to it, and therefore sanctioned by the law of war, compounded by Treitschke, Neurath and Bernhardi, have proved to be the most disastrous things Germany could have done. They are not even justified by their usefulness, for they have not been useful to Germany; they have proved the mill-stones around the neck of that hardened sinner, which have sunk it in the ocean of disgrace and disaster.

"Der Tag" is Thursday, November 21, 1918, when the latest part of the German navy went into British waters and hauled down its flags to the Allied and American admirals.

KAISER AND NAPOLEON.

(Ohio State Journal)

The Kaiser will not go to England, for he has been accused of murder on the high seas as a conqueror of that country and as soon as he goes there he will be arrested and tried for murder. In 1815, after Waterloo, Napoleon tried to escape to the United States, but he was intercepted by the British and sent to St. Helena, where he died in 1821. While on board ship bound for St. Helena attempted service on him as a witness in a trumped up libel suit was made, but was not successful. All they wanted was to get him in England so as to hang him, for the general opinion was that there would be no peace in the world while he lived. It is not a similar case with that of the Kaiser. The world is not afraid of him. He is done for, though he is not too good to be hanged if a court says so.

This is what makes Peptron of wonderful therapeutic value, and so successful after influenza, the grippe and in blood nerve troubles, anemia, paleness nervousness, insomnia and exhausting weariness and anxiety over the world war. It is a real iron, nerve and muscle tonic, especially beneficial in the weak, nerve following the influenza and grippe, worn-out, brain-fagged men, delicate women, school-tired girls and to fast-growing boys, invalids and convalescents, the aged and infirm. It actually puts iron, a natural strengthener, into the blood, and restores the wasted red corpuscles. Your druggist knows its great merit.

Complaint is made of a carnival of thievery now going on, particularly from railroad and express shipments. Crooks who dispose of stolen goods send out gunmen to rob from freight cars and freight stations.

It is said that some of the railroads, owing to shortage of labor, have had to take on some undesirables, who may steal themselves, or at least accept tips to keep their mouths shut.

There has been a complaint of an unusual amount of crime since the war began. The criminal element have felt that the law and order forces of the community were too busy fighting a war to look after them, and that they could play their nefarious trades with less interference than usual.

The first responsibility when such a condition appears, rests upon police forces and the courts. In the police forces are short handed, they must give up kinds of work that are merely for the convenience of the public, and devote themselves to watching and apprehending criminals. If drivers of automobiles and trucks would show decent care, it would not be necessary to have so many policemen serving as traffic officers at congested street crossings. The original elements of the community must be kept down, even if we are subject to annoyances and minor perils in other directions.

Modern penology is inclined to treat a first offender lightly, and the probation system to give him a chance to make good. But if he shows a persistent criminal tendency, merciful treatment not merely encourages him to persist, but it is a bid to all uncaptured criminals to take their chances.

Railroad officials need to be vigilant in the care of the property entrusted to their care. Freight cars furnish altogether too much free transportation to bad people. A man is not fitted to operate a railroad train unless he is willing to put up a determined front to these enemies of society.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN GERMANY.

(Pittsburgh Gazette-Times) American troops have entered Germany. Our Army of Occupation is already in possession of part of the soil which is to be held as a guarantee for the faithful performance of the armistice terms accepted by the enemy. Thus is accomplished a step which conceivably will prove to be quite the most impressive of all which the German people must witness, as the making of peace is proceeded with. Americans have confidence as to the kind of an educational lesson which our soldiers will present to the conquered peoples lately so arrogant. The Germans have no reason to expect human treatment, but that is what they are assured under orders issued by the commanding officers. How they will react to it is a question. In the answer which their conduct makes we shall find a gauge of the task that is before us.

The German armies have been conquered. Soon we shall know whether or not the German people also have made their submission to the victors. If they have not, it will go hard with them.

If they gave it will be manifest in their conduct toward and in the presence of the occupying forces. This is a point for consideration throughout the country. The people to the left of the Rhine are in a sense hostages for the good behavior of all those to the right of the famous stream.

Everyone is hollering to have prices put down, and the popular theory of how to accomplish it is to get your own wages put up.

Some of the people who couldn't be spared from their business to serve in the army will soon be taking long hours to inspect the ruins.

AERIAL SCENERY.

(Columbus Dispatch)
Now comes an aviator to tell us that we do not really know what beautiful scenery is, that one must get up above the clouds in order to understand just what this old world has in the way of magnificent views and inspiring pictures. He says there is nothing like it here below, and that until we are able to go away up toward heaven, as he has often done, we shall not fully appreciate the beauty of creation.

"It may be a dull day here on earth," he claims, "with smoke and soot to annoy one. We may sit and in a few moments we are under the bright sunshine and deep blue sky.

The gloom of earth is replaced by nearly white clouds, with their infinite variety of things, rimmed with the rainbow."

However, we shall not read a good description of aerial scenery until the airplane becomes a commercial quantity, with excursions running at frequent intervals. Then we shall read the literature of the advertiser, as they seek to induce people to take a trip to the skies. The folders they will issue in their campaigns will give us an idea of the beauties of the scenery, but nothing else will.

The German crown prince is not dead. Official information says he reached Holland and has been interned. So the Kaiser, who sent millions of the sons of other fathers to death, has saved all six of his own.—Buffalo Enquirer.

Renouncing thrones has become the fashion. Will that have any effect on the mind of Queen Wilhelmina?—Buffalo Evening Times.

It has been said the Germans did not know what mercy was. That was a mistake, for they are beginning it for themselves.—Baltimore American.

One temptation into which Russian Socialists fell is much less strong n Germany, where the national debt is such great part held by Germans that little would be gained by repudiating it.—Springfield Republican.

William II was an infinitely worse failure than some of his predecessors in the world dominion dream business. Napoleon, for example, lost his dream, but he never lost the devotion of his own people.—Savannah News.

The German crown prince is not dead. Official information says he reached Holland and has been interned. So the Kaiser, who sent millions of the sons of other fathers to death, has saved all six of his own.—Buffalo Enquirer.

Perhaps Wilhelmina is as sentimental as Congresswoman Rankin. The story that her representative had been at German headquarters a week before the Kaiser fled to Holland requires some investigation by the allies.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Thanksgiving looms up. And maybe it won't be some Thanksgiving.

Our Coal Deficit.

There is increasing need for watchfulness in the fuel situation. Production is not keeping pace with requirements, as is indicated by post-election figures of the interior department. In the week of November 2 there was produced 10,965,000 tons, a decrease of 3 per cent over the preceding week.

The average daily requirements are placed at 2,013,000 tons and the daily production necessary to meet these requirements is estimated at 2,041,000 tons. Anthracite production has fallen behind the 1917 production. There is no relief save in that brought about by the conservation of the householder. It must be the business of each person to temperately with the coal bin.—Chicago Tribune.

Barbarous to the End.

Excuses have been offered that German soldiers in Belgium had no alternative except to practice frightfulness. The same excuse cannot be offered for bombing Mezières last Monday.

Wood's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble or a result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for sample bottle. When writing be sure to mention the Newark Advocate.

GRANVILLE

Special to the Advocate.

Granville, Nov. 23.—The advance sale of season tickets for the great musical course of five artist concerts to be presented under the auspices of the Festival association, is most gratifying. To those who plead their inability to appreciate "high brow" music, it is explained that the programs are all planned with a certain popular appeal which real artists know how to make without lowering the musical standards. Most people do like music even though perhaps unable to understand a symphony or to enjoy an aria in a foreign tongue. The first attraction will be a joint recital by the well-known baritone, Oscar Seagle and Barbara Maurel, mezzo soprano. It was of Mr. Seagle that H. E. Kreibell, the distinguished critic of the New York Tribune said: "In voice, in style, and in intelligence he rises head and shoulders above the crowd of concert aspirants, an artist of the first rank." Mr. Seagle possesses a voice of great natural beauty backed by a technical facility of diction unsurpassed by any singer.

Miss Maurel is making her concert debut to America. Born in Alsace-Lorraine in the heart of the territory which has been the scene of such bloody strife for the past four years, she is heart and soul with the cause of France and of America, her country by adoption. Miss Maurel was a pupil of the great Jean de Reszke in Paris and came to this country under contract with the Boston Opera company with which she played leading roles for two seasons.

Morning and evening services at the Presbyterian church will be conducted by Rev. J. E. Detwiler. Sunday school will be held at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Era Perry is in Detroit where she is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Arthur Griffith.

Miss Belle Newton of Bowling Green, formerly a student in Shepardson college and a member of Kappa Phi sorority, was the guest on Thursday of her cousin, Mrs. W. E. Dailey. She is now visiting Mrs. Merrill Montgomery in N. wark.

Eugene Deming of Summerville, S. C., is in Granville, his old home town, visiting his brother, Henry, for a few days.

No more men will be accepted for the S. A. T. C. according to an announcement made by Lieutenant Debel of the Denison unit. That the war is over, the Students' Army Training Corps, along with other army units, may expect a complete reorganization. The government apparently, is willing to support and educate only those who are proving themselves of real worth. Slackers are no more welcome here than elsewhere, and Denison wants only men who are willing to buckle down to work, and who seem to appreciate a free education from the government.

Services will be held in St. Luke's church Sunday at 10 o'clock a.m. Service by Rev. F. C. Randolph.

The Granville Community Training school has begun under auspicious conditions, about 50 members having enrolled at its first meeting and several others expected to enter next Tuesday evening. The purpose of the school is to train Sunday school workers. The first half of the session is devoted to a lecture course given by the Dean, Dr. Rohin H. Tanner, to the school as a whole, on the subject "How the Mind Operates." During the latter half of the session, the school is divided into classes, pursuing the following subjects: Harmony of the Gospels, Prof. Conchlin, The History of the Church, Rev. E. F. Crawford; The Geography of the Bible, Prof. F. G. Detwiler; Work With Seniors, Miss Minnie Jones; Work With Little Children, Miss Helen Detwiler. The meetings will be held every Tuesday at 7 o'clock p. m. and are open to all who are interested in the kind of work which it undertakes to do.

Mr. C. B. Newton of Bowling Green, formerly Miss Elizabeth Benedict of the Denison Conservatory, arrived in Granville Friday afternoon for a brief visit with old friends. She is the house guest of Mrs. R. S. Colwell until this evening when she expects to return to her home.

The afternoon and evening classes in nurses' training under Mrs. Frank Ray's tutelage are making fine progress and keeping up a wonderful degree of interest, roll call by Mrs. McKibben showing no absences except in cases of illness. The first written tests were given yesterday afternoon and last evening.

The Mothers' club is holding a food sale this afternoon in Geach's hardware store.

Copy of Letter Received By The Newark Natural Gas & Fuel Co.

UNITED STATES FUEL ADMINISTRATION

JOS. H FRANTZ
Federal Fuel Administration for Ohio
Gugie Building

Columbus, O., November 14, 1918.

To Natural Gas Companies:

Gentlemen—

In view of the threatened shortage of natural gas, which our information leads us to believe will be acute and general in the state of Ohio, the United States Fuel Administration for Ohio is asking all domestic consumers who are equipped with coal-burning devices to lay in enough coal to keep their houses warm in extreme weather.

Unless you are confident that your supply will be adequate to the demands that will be made upon it, your company should help in enlisting interest in this provision against winter's discomfort. Your inspectors and meter-men come in contact with the consumers, and are familiar with their equipment. A word from them may be a very good service to your customers. Doubtless other departments of your organization can help in this.

Of course if you are confident there will be enough gas, no action is necessary.

Trusting that you will give this careful consideration and advise us if you take any action, we remain,

Yours truly,

United States Fuel Administration for Ohio.

Theodore Lindenberg, Bureau of Conservation.

ATTENTION, BOYS!

Remember the Date, January 1st,

1919—that is the Date on

Which the

BOYS' THRIFT CLUB

Conducted by Roe Emerson will end.

Over $5,000 Thrift Cards have been given to boys in Newark and surrounding localities. For each of these Cards when entirely punched, representing purchases for the boy to the amount of Five Dollars, Mr. Emerson gave a

Thriff Stamp. The giving of these

Thriff Stamps started many boys to save the stamps, thereby teaching them the lesson of thrift;

to others who had already started to save helped them fill their cards. Besides aiding the boys,

Mr. Emerson's Thrift Club served a patriotic purpose in that it

it helped to promote the sale of the Thrift Stamps.

On January 1st, Nineteen-Nineteen, the giving of the stamps will end for the year Nineteen-Eighteen.

So remember, boys, if you want your stamps—make your purchases on or before January first in order to get credit on your Thrift cards.

Thriff Club cards not valid if presented after Jan. 1, 1919.

If there is a new issue of stamps for Nineteen-Nineteen, Mr.

Emerson will probably start a new club and continue giving stamps.

PRESIDENT

American delegates to the peace con-

The rise of Mr. McAdoo to a place of influence in the administration, which may have declared was second only to the president's, was very fast. As a southern lawyer who had been interested in southern cities he went to New York and accomplished the then almost unbelievable feat of successfully tunneling the Hudson river for electric trains.

One of the first men to suggest the scheme—if not actually the first—was adjudged a lunatic and he lived to see the project an accomplishment. His name has been forgotten in the success of the achievement.

When Mr. Wilson, then governor of New Jersey, became a presidential candidate, Mr. McAdoo was practically unknown to him. But Mr. McAdoo took an active part in the Democratic national committee, and much of the time as acting chairman and also as chairman of the finance committee. The press selected him for secretary of the treasury.

At the outset of the president's first term it was a pastime of observers of public affairs to refer to "the strong men of the cabinet" generally speaking of two or three. It is not reflected on Mr. McAdoo to say that his name was not then so early included, but it soon became so.

Mentioned for President.

It was no secret that the president depended upon his advice and judgment more and more on affairs which ranged outside the treasury. He soon began taking a prominent part in shaping the administration's legislative program and he invariably had the backing of the president. Possibly this brought him into the field of Democratic presidential possibilities when they were being discussed, but so far as anyone knows Mr. McAdoo has never expressed himself on that subject. He had devoted his attention to serving his chief.

It has been well known in Washington that Mr. McAdoo, a man of comparatively small personal fortune, has felt that sooner or later he must replenish his resources. Friends at various times have expressed some apprehension for his health, for he has been an indefatigable worker, and while the duties of secretary of the treasury would have taxed the health and energy of anyone, he did not hesitate to take on the railroad administration and found time besides to take a prominent place in the president's councils on other subjects. While on a recent trip in the west he fell from a horse and broke a rib, but his friends say that had no effect whatever on his general health.

Faced Many Big Problems.

Since the European war broke out in the fall of 1914 Mr. McAdoo's department has faced many big economic problems lately. The tremendous liberty loan and corollary problems of financing war expenses have been his principal concern. Mr. McAdoo stood out strongly against all treasury advisors who were in favor of a short-term loan, and maintained that $2,000,000,000 was not too much to ask the American people to give in a single year. Others argued that $500,000,000 at most was $1,000,000,000, was enough.

As a leading builder of the federal reserve system, an early advocate of a great government-built merchant marine and a developer of the federal loan system, he was known particularly.

AMUSEMENTS

AUDIENCES

"FLO-FLO"

John Cort will present his musical comedy hit "Flo-Flo," which was played at the Cort Theatre, New York, all last season and was conceded to be the brightest musical production seen in the metropolis in many years.

"Flo-Flo" is the setting of the only "perfected" comedy chorus in captivity, which has been cowritten by Mr. Cort with much lavish cooperation from the picturesque and the show alone would be sufficient for a revue.

The plot evolved by Fred De Gresac for the piece centers about the Bride Shop where Angelina Stokes is ordering the trousseau for her wedding to a Spanish count, whom she cannot love. Her affection center about Billy, a childhood sweetheart from Oshkosh, who suddenly arrives in New York and accepts a position with Mosher and Simpson. Billy and Angelina are separated by the latter's stern parent and Billy, determined to let his vampish Flo-Flo, most beautiful of Mosher and Simpson's mannequins, Angelina sees sweetheart and the model together and determines to go through with her marriage to the count. Just about this time the perfidy of the count is discovered, Angelina's costly trousseau is stolen, and Flo-Flo determines to renounce Billy, who she has found does not love her. So the lovers are brought together but not until Punky and Atysus as well as Mosher and Simpson have had ample opportunity to display their abilities as eccentric actors.

The curtain will rise at 8:45 p. m. this evening.

"Experience."

In the Golden Cabaret scene on the Princess Path of Pleasure in "Experience," the latest dances will be seen.

In this act one finds seated at the various tables in the cabaret, dining and chatting, such fascinating ladies as Fashion, Beauty, Excitement, Song, Personality, Pleasure, Slander, and Pride. With them around they sit intent simply on dancing and chatting, but as soon as the music strikes up a dance step, everything is changed, and the Golden Cabaret becomes a whirl of merry dancers, whose greatest ambition in life seems to be to keep dancing all night.

"Experience" comes to the Auditorium today.

"Pershing's Crusaders."

For a year the United States Government cameramen have been busy registering the activities of our soldiers and sailor boys on thousands of feet of motion picture film.

As a result the people of Newark will have the first chance tomorrow (Sunday) at the Auditorium to see what has been done by our boys up to date over here and over there.

"Pershing's Crusaders" is the title of this first official government feature film of the war, and really constitutes a motion picture history of our frontiers.

A successful effort has been made to capture the government's handling of the gigantic task of preparation for war. The recruiting of our army, the building of huge cantonments, the making of arms to equip them, the building of enormous ship yards and the rapidity with which ships are being built and launched.

You will see our boys—in training, fleets of aeroplanes in dizzy flight, our great floating fortresses on vigilant guard, our swift destroyers searching the sea for the hated German periscopes.

Roscoe Arbuckle in a comedy is an added feature.

"The Other Man's Wife."

Should women have the same chance with men?

This is the question that has set the world talking. Many of a scientific turn of mind, deny the equality, with the assertion that the brain like the body is weaker than that of man, and not capable of formulating gigantic projects, and carrying them through to a successful issue.

The claim is made to a shell, from a scientific base, and not from a woman's point of view. A woman has never been put to the test as man has. Therefore, you admit that there is just a chance that the woman may be not only the equal to man, but greater his superior, if the opportunity is open to her to try her talents.

The man can make many mistakes and still face the world without a tremor, but in "The Other Man's Wife," right triumphs regardless of sex, and woman has an equal right with man. Every woman should see herself in the light of being superior as the author has fully justified her in this great play that will be given at the Auditorium Thanksgiving Day, matinee and night. Seats ready Tuesday.

"Pollyanna."

Among the many good things announced for the enjoyment of local theater-goers is the coming of "Pollyanna," the glad play, which has brought so much good cheer to audiences that have witnessed it in all the larger cities of the eastern portion of the United States. No play has been brought forward in recent years with a wider popular appeal than "Pollyanna". It is an appealing which is more likely to impress an evergreen memory of a night at the theatre.

The character of Pollyanna is a flesh and blood example of the power of gladness. Every word she utters, every step she takes, every friend she makes, is glowing evidence of a heart that is kept joyful and fragrant by the exercise of kindness.

Miss Madge Bellamy will play the title role, and will be supported by Gordon Johnstone, George Lindsey,

"A Night in Honolulu."

Among the main things to catch the eye of the traveler is the old native grass houses on the Islands of Hawaii, and for this reason the author has produced both exterior and interior of this picturesque abode, which serves as the first scene in the last act of "A Night in Honolulu," which comes to the Auditorium late Saturday afternoon and evening.

The spirit of modern improvement has replaced them with less pleasant shanties, and these are depicted as they were in the old days.
